

Butterfly Lantern Scarf by Ventriloquist Court® (Designed, Handmade, & Hand-painted in Australia)

DESCRIPTION

Inspired by paper lanterns, this scarf features a hand-painted butterfly print, using professional eco-friendly textile paint (Australian-made paint & vegan-friendly). The butterfly print is created from my own hand-drawn butterfly silhouette cutout. Since the print is hand-painted, the placement of the dragonflies will be a little unique to each scarf. The paint is heat-cured to protect the colour from washing out or fading.

The negative butterfly print is available in any gradient colour! Choose from gradient dark to light blue, black to light grey, or if you would like a different colour, contact me to discuss possibilities. I'll do my best to mix up your dream colour! Please note that as this is a negative print, the colour of the butterflies themselves is white.

The stretch part of the scarf, which wraps around your neck, is made from pale cream modal spandex. This fabric is very soft and stretchy. The lower part is painted with brushed dots to match the negative butterfly print.

CARE INSTRUCTIONS

Hand wash the scarf in cool soapy water using mild soap such as castile soap. Rinse the scarf in clean cool water.

Use a medium-hot iron with low steam on the painted cotton part of the scarf. It's recommended that you either iron on the reverse side (i.e. the opposite side of the painted fabric), or iron on the painted fabric only once you've first covered it with baking paper (the baking paper will make it easier for you to glide the iron around).

For the stretchy part of the scarf (the pale cream modal spandex), use a low-heat iron.

DETAILED INFO ABOUT MATERIALS:

- * Professional non-toxic eco-friendly textile paint (vegan-friendly) made in Australia
- * Sheer white cotton organdy handwoven by artisans in India (lightweight, stiff fabric which will soften a little after wash)
- * Vintage 1970s stock Japanese-made 'pearlescent' buttons (acrylic plastic) in an ivory colour (size: 4mm)
- * Medium-weight pale cream modal spandex (Exact composition is unknown, but my best guess is 85% modal & 15% spandex). Modal is a type of rayon made from reconstituted cellulose from beech trees. A highly absorbent fabric, its breathability is akin to cotton.
